

Canada's War Effort

A Review of Developments on the Home Front

Provincial directors of the War Savings Campaign left Ottawa this week to turn the heat on the voluntary workers throughout the country so as to double and perhaps treble the amount of money being raised by the sale of WAR SAVINGS STAMPS AND CERTIFICATES. The two-day session of the directors with W. H. Somerville and L. deGaspé Beaulieu, the joint chairmen, and officials of the Department of Finance and the Bank of Canada, will result in raising the objective from $50,000,000 to $120,000,000, and in increasing the number of local committees from upwards of 1,000 to well over 5,000. In four months' work the war savings organization has raised half the $50,000,000 objective for the first year. In addition to some $25,000,000 in certificates, more than $2,000,000 in savings stamps have been purchased, but not yet turned in. Some of these have been burned deliberately as a contribution to the war effort. Sometimes officials have been notified of the stamp collection. All told, there is a record of about $25,000 WORTH HAVING BEEN BURNED, including the $500 burned at the Kelowna Regatta. One point stressed at the meeting was the need of building up in Canada a sane program of saving. The sale of certificates is a definite part of the war economy program of preventing inflation. It is a means of avoiding the expansion of luxury buying which featured the last war. A drive will be made to increase the arrangements by which certificates are purchased through regular deductions from pay envelopes. Such deductions are now being made by 11,000 Canadian companies. This is the main source of sale for certificates. . . . When certificates were first proposed last April, there was opposition on the ground that the machinery for handling sales of small donations would make the project an expensive way to raise money. When selling started in June, emphasis was laid on the thrift angle, on the putting of as much income as possible directly into the war effort. Such emphasis is still being continued, but figures on costs show that money is being raised through certificates more cheaply than through war loans in the last war. No commission is paid salesmen and expenses are limited to clerical work and advertising. Money raised so far has cost less than three-quarters of one per cent, which is about double the cost of war loan financing in this war. One way costs have been kept down has been by installation of a whole battery of automatic filing, sorting and mailing machinery in Ottawa. This machinery is so automatic that when a man writes for twenty five dollar certificates he gets twenty letters back instead of one letter with twenty certificates. When this happened first, there was an immediate complaint about extravagance in mailing, but a check has convinced officials that sending out twenty letters is a cheaper way of dealing with the situation than sorting out all mail.

Difficulty in securing trained RADIO WORKERS for the air force may lead to combing out men with special radio knowledge from other branches of the service, Hon. C. G. Power has announced. Mr. Power's statement led to the disclosure that a widespread plan of combing out experts of different kinds is being considered by a committee of the three services, the Department of Labor and the Department of Munitions. It is also understood that a proposal to follow the thirty-day compulsory training period with a period of technical training is now being examined. This would have to be selective, as men who had specialized training are among those being called for service. Already the Department of Munitions has concluded several surveys of available labor for certain skilled occupations. There has been no general report on their findings. . . . The air force is training its own mechanics now and thus is not drawing on industry. In fact, the air force contends that graduates from the St. Thomas school are better for their purpose than the mechanics enlisted from garages and industry. . . . INDUSTRY IS FACED, officials admit, with the problem of training its own mechanics just as the air force had to do. The technical schools and youth training classes have been providing many industrial recruits, but not enough to meet the need. Already Montreal has imported labor from the Maritimes and Ontario. The shortage of skilled men is more acute in Quebec than anywhere else in Canada. In Ottawa, however, it has reached the stage where an aircraft company attempted to advertise for workers in Kingston and St. Catharines, only to have the advertisements refused on the ground that there was a local shortage of labor in those cities. . . . Early in the war there was some attempt to prevent enlistment of certain specialists in the army. This, officials say, did not go far enough. Even military men agree that good mechanics can serve their country to better purpose now than by serving with infantry.

The past twelve months has seen the largest absolute INCREASE IN INDUSTRIAL EMPLOYMENT AND PRODUCTION in Canadian statistics, according to a review by the Bank of Nova Scotia. The greatest increase in activity has occurred in the metal-working and machinery industries, chemicals, and certain branches of the textile trades and employment in these industries showed gains ranging from twenty-one per cent in electrical apparatus to 324 per cent in shipbuilding during the first year of the war. The outlook for this section of Canadian industry is generally for capacity production and extensive plant expansion, for it is in this field that war orders have been concentrated. . . . War orders have been placed at a steadily increasing rate, and by the end of September the total value of defence contracts awarded by the Government was $525,000,000—390 millions on Canadian account and about 135 millions on British account. Of the grand total, some 450 millions appear to have been placed in Canada. In addition, capital commitments, almost entirely for arms and munitions plants, amounted to 235 millions, and on completion this capital program will involve a production of well over 800 millions a year.

The CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY has also been stimulated by war orders. As a result of the capital expansion program, contracts for industrial purposes have been four times larger this year than a year earlier and were even greater than the high figures for the corresponding months of 1928 and 1929. In addition, there has been a large amount of defence building—air fields, training schools, barracks, etc. The result has been that, though highway construction has been considerably reduced and residential building slightly lower, the total value of construction contracts was nearly $250,000,000 in the first nine months of the year as compared with about $150,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1939. The BASIC EXPORT INDUSTRIES have also experienced a marked increase in operations, particularly in the forestry branches. Exports, including gold, amounted to $313,000,000 during the third quarter of the year, up $80,000,000 from the corresponding quarter of 1939.

DROWNING IS VERDICT OF CORONER

Adam Lewis "Grumpy" Niebergall Believed to Have Taken His Own Life in Okanagan Lake

BODY FOUND SUNDAY

Deceased Man Came to Okanagan Prior to World War 1 and Had Been Expert Fruit Packer in Southern States

Coroner T. F. McWilliams announced on Wednesday, after hearing evidence produced before a coroner's enquiry, that Adam Lewis "Grumpy" Niebergall, fruit inspector for B. C. Tree Fruits Ltd., central sales agency, had come to his death in Okanagan Lake, nine miles south of Kelowna, from drowning. It was evident, the coroner stated, that death had been caused by his own hand, as some fourteen pounds of rocks were found in the pockets of the deceased man's clothing. Niebergall, a quiet, even-tempered man, the tragedy came as a shock to a wide circle of friends. He was an expert in his work of fruit inspection, and was considered a valuable member of the B. C. Tree Fruits Ltd. He took a great interest in hockey and was a member of last year's executive. Last week, he was re-elected to the Hockey Club executive. Born in Melville, Sask., forty years ago, the late "Grumpy" Niebergall came to Vernon just prior to the war. He joined the Canadian Expeditionary Force and served overseas, returning to Canada in 1919. For a time, he was employed as a mechanic, before learning the fruit packing trade.

Went to California In 1922, he moved to California and entered the fruit packing game in the Imperial Valley, along with Bill Thomas, now resident in Kelowna; W. H. Fleming, Summerland; Axel Monsees, Vernon, and the Claggett brothers, of Winfield, British Columbia. He worked in the fruit trade in Idaho and Arizona and returned to the Okanagan to join the Associated Growers inspection staff in 1936. He was an expert in cantaloupe requirements.

When B. C. Tree Fruits came into existence in June, 1939, he joined the inspection staff of that concern and moved his residence to Kelowna. On Friday last, November 1, he is believed to have driven south along the Okanagan Mission road, past J. W. Hughes' Lakeside Farm, to a point nearly opposite the Windermere farm, on the road to Cedar Creek. There the car was abandoned and was not located until Sunday morning, when many volunteer searchers combed the country in search of the missing mail. On Sunday afternoon, power boats, steered by "Tiny" Walrod and Earl Murchison, went to the shores of Okanagan Lake below the cliff, near the edge of which the Niebergall car had been located. Just as the Murchison pleasure launch, "Mercury," arrived in the bay, one or two searchers on the cliff above caught sight of an object lying in the water beside a rock. They gave directions and the body of the missing man was located.

Superficial Cut A gash in his forehead was observed, but it did not cause death, according to medical advice given by Coroner McWilliams. It was a superficial wound which might have been self-inflicted by means of a rock, it is stated.

It is believed that personal difficulties had created a state of mental depression. He had not been in the best of health for the past few months. Besides his wife in Kelowna, he leaves three sisters and one brother. Both his parents predeceased him in Vernon.

Funeral service was held at the Kelowna First United Church on Wednesday afternoon, with Rev. Dr. W. W. McPherson officiating. Interment was in the Vernon cemetery. Pallbearers were R. F. Parkinson, R. P. "Tiny" Walrod, Charles Dore, Arthur Hall, William Thomas and George E. Brown.

Subject to the inspection of Building Inspector Fred Gore, the City Council has granted J. A. Black permission to install a temporary septic tank on Lot 9, Block 20, Plan 830.

John Gehrig Sentenced to Six Months under Canada Defence Act

Prison Sentence Meted Out by Magistrate in Difficult Case—First Charge Under Defence of Canada Regulations Heard in Kelowna

John Gehrig, German-born alien resident of Bear Creek, was sentenced by Magistrate T. F. McWilliams in Kelowna Police Court on Friday morning, to six months' imprisonment under the Canada Defence Regulations, the first case of its kind to be brought before the court in Kelowna since the outbreak of war. Magistrate McWilliams declared that this was one of the most difficult decisions he has had to make since his acceptance of the magistracy post in the city of Kelowna, as there was a great deal of contradictory evidence and the defence had proved that there was considerable animosity to the accused in some of the statements of prosecution witnesses. The case opened on Monday afternoon last week, and by Tuesday afternoon the evidence had been placed and the counsel had given their summaries. Magistrate McWilliams then adjourned the case

FIVE KELOWNA LADS AT R.C.A.F. BRANDON DEPOT

Kelowna district has sent many outstanding young men to the R.A.F. and the R.C.A.F. and a good many more are awaiting a call to pack their bags and be on their way to the Royal Canadian Air Force. At Brandon recently, seven Kelowna district men were congregated for training and the above picture was taken while they were together. Front row: Geoff Rennie, "Bunny" Hobson and Jim Macdonald; back row, Fred C. Waterman, William Embrey, Dick Stubbs and Jack Lynne. Another Kelowna man, Eric Lyons, was at Brandon for a short time but had been transferred prior to this picture being taken. He is now at St. Thomas, Ont. Bill Embrey and Fred Waterman are now at No. 2 Initial Training School, Regina.

At 10:15 o'clock more than a dozen organizations in the Kelowna district will gather at the Canadian Legion, Ellis street, for the parade down Bernard avenue to the Cenotaph.

An international angle will be added. Turn to Page 5, Story 6

PILOT OFFICER DIES IN ENGLAND

John Leycester Maude-Roxby, of Kelowna, Passes Suddenly

John Leycester Maude-Roxby, Royal Air Force Pilot Officer, has been reported here as having passed away in England from acute appendicitis and peritonitis. Son of Capt. C. V. Maude-Roxby, now serving with the Canadian Forestry Corps at Valcartier, P.Q., and Mrs. Maude-Roxby, resident in Kelowna, the young man joined the R.A.F. in May, 1939. He completed a two months' probationary training in July and August of that year and was awarded his "Wings" in October, 1939. In the first part of the war, he was with a fighter squadron but since July, 1940, he had been with the heavy bombers, taking part continually in the long night flights over Berlin the Rhine, Hamburg, etc. During the last three months, he was first pilot, or "captain" of his plane.

Born at Rutland on March 25, 1920, the deceased went to school at East Kelowna and Kelowna High School before leaving for England to join the R.A.F.

No details have been received here as to this death, except that it was from acute appendicitis and peritonitis.

Besides his parents, he leaves a brother, Guy, in the R.C.A. at Esquimaut, and one sister, Sylvia, at school at Shawnigan, V.I.

until Thursday morning and on that day again reserved his decision until the following morning.

H. V. Craig prosecuted, on behalf of the R.C.M.P., while E. C. Weddell was defence counsel.

Most of the witnesses who testified for the prosecution and the defence were mainly from Bear Creek. Prejudicial Statements Gehrig was charged with making statements intended or likely to be prejudicial to the efficient prosecution of the war and contrary to the Defence of Canada Regulations. He showed no emotion when Magistrate McWilliams declared him guilty and, apart from a twitching of his hands, there was no change in the short, stocky, black-haired man. Evidence which he gave in his own defence had occupied a large part of the trial. Magistrate McWilliams explained that there were two main factors confronting the court. One was: "Did he make the alleged statements?" and the other was: "Are they likely to be prejudicial to the effective prosecution of the war?" In the second instance, the magistrate had no difficulty in arriving

War Activities Drive Realizes $5,000 After Little More Than Week

Campaign Officially Closes on Saturday but Canvassers will Need Longer to Complete Districts Allotted—Only Portion of Monies Collected to Date Turned in to Central Office—Probably More Like $10,000 Collected but Not Handed in Yet—Big Thermometer on Bernard Attracts Attention

THIS morning, the big thermometer on Bernard avenue will show that $5,000 has been collected and turned in to the central office of the Kelowna and District War Activities Committee, as the second week of the campaign commences. Originally, it was planned to close the drive on Saturday, November 9, but present indications are that it will be impossible to complete the drive by that date. Many of the canvassers have had to make several re-visits and all districts will not be thoroughly canvassed on Saturday.

The figure of $5,000 does not really give the true picture of the canvass to date. Many canvassers, not having completed their territory, have not turned in their collections to the central office, to E. W. Barton, Secretary.

Only one or two of the rural districts outside the city have completed their returns and handed in their collections. It is quite probable that the canvass has already been subscribed to double the amount of $5,000.

The objective of the Kelowna and District War Activities Committee is $20,000. The Canadian Red Cross Society will benefit chiefly from the funds raised, while the division of these war charity contributions.

Just One Canvass It is the hope of the W.A.C. that sufficient money can be raised in one lump sum so that no further district-wide canvasses need be staged for the rest of the year, until the fall of 1941. Kelowna and district citizens rallied valiantly to the call for war charities' last fall and subscribed $14,000.

This year, with the British Isles being bombed by the Nazi planes and the need for war charities more clearly defined than a year ago, the officials who are arranging this campaign are hopeful that the citizens of the community and neighboring districts will be even more generous than they were a year ago.

It is hoped that most of the canvass will be concluded by Saturday and that by that date the objective will be in sight. However, if some canvassers cannot complete their districts by the week-end, the drive will have to continue for a few days more.

This district is contributing in one lump sum a greater proportion than other cities of similar size in the interior. However, only one canvass is being made here, whereas other cities which have not followed Kelowna's lead will have future canvasses to take care of other subscriptions and thus the citizens of those communities will have to "dig down" many times.

It is being stressed in this particular Kelowna drive that it is not necessary to make a contribution at one time which will cover the entire year. A small cash payment may be made and the subscriber may pledge himself or herself to make contributions at regular intervals thereafter.

A note on the bank to have that institution draw a certain amount each month will spread contributions over a longer period and will work no hardship on anyone, whereas a contribution in one lump sum might mean too much of a hardship.

BOY SCOUTS NOW SEEK OLD TOYS George Anderson has kindly offered the use of the small wooden building behind his garage on Lawrence avenue to the Kelowna Boy Scouts for a toy repair shop, need of which was stressed in The Courier last week. Now that the premises have been located, the Scouts are in need of old toys which they will repair in readiness to cheer the heart of some less fortunate youngster this Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Weddell and Mrs. G. A. Barst will receive any such toys and hand them on to the Boy Scouts.

FRUIT SHIPMENTS CONTINUE BRISK Up to last Saturday, 4,810 cars of fruit and vegetables were shipped by B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., since the start of the 1940-41 season, compared with 3,960 up to the same time in 1939, showing an increase of 1,250 cars. In the one week, ending last Saturday, 432 cars had been shipped, thus continuing an excellent movement from interior to B.C. points. Business continues brisk this week, although not at the same rate as the previous two weeks.

American Tells Why U.S. Prefers B.C. Apples

"I THINK that the British Columbia fruit grower is entitled to feel considerable resentment at the dog-in-the-manger attitude of our friends to the south," declared A. K. Loyd to The Courier on Wednesday, in reply to the wave of public indignation which has been expressed in the fruit growing areas of Washington against the importation of Canadian apples into the United States this fall.

"For many years the fruit grower of B.C. has experienced the difficulties attendant on the importation of supplies from our neighbors immediately prior to the opening of the season for many commodities in his home market. Time and again the result of these importations has been to delay the free movement of his soft fruit crop into his own particular field, unless at reduced prices, until the supplies mentioned above have been cleaned up.

With the addition of $9,775 for the month of October, the building permit total for the ten months of 1940 stands at $110,706.80, according to the figures compiled at the City office last week.

Three new residences were included in the October total, including a new $3,200 home for R. J. Sugars and a $2,000 residence for C. F. Stewart. This brings the total number of new residences erected or started this year to 32, at a building permit value of $72,210.

For the past ten years, the building permit values at the end of October have been as follows: 1930, $96,921; 1931, $70,716; 1932, $97,284; 1933, $74,711; 1934, $60,313; 1935, $105,418; 1936, $99,890; 1937, $146,080; 1938, $127,990; 1939, $340,761.

Bailey, garage, $75; J. M. Gagnon, moving building, $750.

APPRECIATION FOR ROTARY PAYS CO-OPERATION SILENT TRIBUTE

Kelowna City Council expressed its hearty thanks to the B.C. Police, the special B.C. Police Reserve Force, Patrol Schoolboy Traffic Patrol, Boy Scouts and Sea Cadets for their co-operation on the evening of Halloween in keeping the city free from any hoodlums.

The younger people of the city came in for their share of praise as the Council included them in their vote of thanks, as they had co-operated well following the appeals made by civic authorities to eliminate the damage to valuable property. As a result, there was not a case of malicious damage reported in the whole city and one of the few stolen articles was Sergeant Alex Macdonald's own screen door, which was lifted more in the spirit of good, clean fun than from any idea of creating damage.

The Rotary Club on Tuesday observed two minutes silence as a tribute to those young men from this district who have given their lives during the present struggle. Several Kelowna men in the air force and navy have been casualties.

The brief tribute came during an address by O. St. P. Aitken, who called upon the members to make this gesture. He also asked that the song "The Navy's Here" be sung as a tribute to Ordinary Seaman Howland, who was recently mentioned in despatches and Able Seaman Ernest Snowsell, and Leading Seaman Michael Laak, who were lost with H.M.C.S. Margaree.

Hon. J. L. Ilsley Writes Personal Letter of Thanks to Kelowna

Minister of Finance Expresses Appreciation for Splendid Contribution to Canada's War Effort from Kelowna Aquatic Association

Mayor G. A. McKay has received a personal letter from Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance in the Dominion Government, conveying cordial thanks to the Kelowna Aquatic Association for the handsome contribution to Canada's war effort emanating from the 34th annual Kelowna Regatta, held last August.

Mayor McKay, as Chairman of the Kelowna and District War Activities Committee, had been asked to forward the cheque for $1,814.01 to Ottawa on behalf of the Aquatic group.

Hon. J. L. Ilsley's letter follows: "Dear Mayor McKay, 'Your letter of October 23rd has been brought to my attention on my return to the office after a few days' absence, and I have pleasure in acknowledging the cheque for $1,814.01 which you enclosed as a contribution towards Canada's war effort from the Kelowna Aquatic Association and other residents of Kelowna and district. 'Will you please convey to the members of the Association, and others who shared in this generous gift, the sincere thanks of the Government of Canada as well as my own personal thanks. My colleagues and I deeply appreciate this evidence of practical interest and support in the Dominion's part in the present conflict. 'The amount which you have sent will be paid into the War Savings and Stamps were bought. Needless to say, this, too, is most gratifying to us. 'Thank you for the photograph. I must say that the effigy is an excellent likeness of the original. 'A picture of the effigy of Hitler burning in front of the Aquatic pavilion had been forwarded to Mr. Ilsley. "Although this has caused expense, great inconvenience and, in some cases, very considerable irritation, no attempt, to my knowledge, has been made to persuade Canadian authorities to embargo such fruit. "Up to this time, we have not felt it to be necessary to make any particular protest against the campaign which is being waged in certain fruit circles in Wenatchee against the export of our fruit into the United States. However, since representatives from States to the South of us have gone to the length of requesting Washington to impose an embargo against the export of Canadian fruit, we feel that it is time that the position of British Columbia fruit growers in this regard was amplified."

According to a recent issue of the Wenatchee World, apple growers, shippers and businessmen from all parts of the Wenatchee district, gathered at Wenatchee last week and were "virtually up in arms" 25 cents a box less for their apples to the U.S. of Canadian apples.

Temporary Embargo "All admitted the seriousness of these imports and believed a temporary embargo against Canadian apples should be declared at once. American growers are getting about 25 cents a box less for their apples because of the Canadian competition and in many cases this difference is enough to cause orchardists to lose their farms, delegates agreed."

Taking advantage of the U.S. elections, these American fruit growers with telegrams demanding an embargo on Canadian apples. A number of United States officials have visited Kelowna to interview B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. One of these men, F. A. Motz, was quoted in the Wenatchee World as saying: "Turn to Page 4, Story 5

Remember The Dead

On Monday, November 11th, Kelowna, with the rest of the Dominion, will remember its glorious dead of the Great War. Since 1918, it has been customary to gather at the foot of the cenotaph and, for a brief moment, pay a silent tribute to those who fought for right and freedom, home and country, and gave their lives during those four years of grisly horror.

And we should not forget them this year. If we, who lived, bungled the task which they left in our hands, it was not their fault. They did their job well. They achieved their purpose and left foundations for us to build upon. But we built poorly, and once again it is a question of the very foundations themselves.

But those who did their task so nobly should not be forgotten. On Monday we should join the service at the Cenotaph and pay our tribute to those heroes of two decades ago. We should remember our dead.

But Succor The Living

But while it is our privilege to remember our dead, it is our bounden duty to succor the living.

As we remember our dead we realize that today there is a new wound which, thank God, is not yet, to us in Canada at least, cutting as deep as its forerunner of two decades and more ago. Our men of arms today are carrying on the fight so gallantly waged by their fathers.

Even as we honor our dead there are living those who need the help of our outstretched hand. The Living who are spending nights of horror in air-raid shelters; the Living who have seen their homes wiped out by sudden bomb; the Living who have seen their loved ones buried under their devastated homes; the Living who themselves have been maimed by shell fragment or falling timber. The Living who are serving with Canadian forces on land and sea and in the air—they, too, need many little comforts which you can provide. The Living, maimed and helpless, fighting your battles, fighting that you need not know the horrors of total war.

The Living should be remembered. And the people of Kelowna are now being asked to remember them by giving generously to the war charities campaign. For that is what your donation to the campaign means—the succoring of the Living. It is not a question of doing your part. It is, rather, a question of you doing everything you can to help those who are fighting your battles. Give generously!

Hallowe'en Quiet

Hallowe'en passed in Kelowna this year as peacefully as could be desired and certainly more peacefully than in any recent year.

To what can the sudden change in attitude of the young hooligans be attributed?

Certainly the teen-age youngsters who are responsible for property damage did not have a sudden conversion, a sudden change of conscience. Certainly, too, the slight rain was not sufficient to dampen their enthusiasm for destruction. What then?

It can only be assumed that they realized that this year the authorities meant business and were wise enough not to run foul of the police net.

On Thursday last this paper went to some trouble to warn the youngsters to mind their p's and q's as special police had been enrolled and the entire city would be covered by guardians of the law. This apparently had a salutary effect on those planning to shove over fences, demolish woodsheds and the like.

The authorities are to be commended for the action in handling the Hallowe'en problem this year. The enrollment of the special auxiliary police and the enlistment of the Sea Cadets and the Boy Scouts were smart moves which gave the law enforcement officers a sufficient force to give the city adequate police protection. In passing it is interesting to note that the Scouts and Sea Cadets carried out their traditional activities by enlisting themselves on the side of law and order. The determination of the authorities to see that Hallowe'en was not an occasion merely for destruction of property and the imposing of this fact on the minds of the teen-age youths of the city brought a satisfactory result. A precedent has been set. The authorities would do well to observe it every year.

The Answer Is Obvious

The Financial Post, that Toronto financial journal which usually has a reliable ear very close to the ground, last week carried some important news for the fruit-growing sections of the Dominion. It said that Canadian housewives would be probably asked to make a special contribution to Canada's war effort by purchasing Canadian products as much as possible and that they would be assisted in their desire through the government restricting the importation of American fruits, vegetables and household appliances.

The Post suggests that active negotiations are about to start between Ottawa and Washington on this matter. Our trade agreement with the United States contains a clause that should either country be engaged in war, revisions could be made without violating the terms or the spirit of the accord. On two occasions Canada has made such revisions and in both cases Washington authorities were consulted in advance.

In a normal year Canada imports $20,000,000 of fresh fruits and vegetables from the United States and about $5,000,000 of household appliances. Oranges, grapefruit, lemons, lettuce, celery, early tomatoes and potatoes loom largely in the first group. Ottawa thinks this bill is far larger than we can afford to pay in war time and that we need California-built planes more than California-grown lettuce. There is, however, no intention of simply placing an embargo on these imports but rather to adopt selective restriction.

The Ottawa Journal recently carried an editorial headed "Our Pampered Appetites" which struck right to the root of the matter. It is interesting to note that the Journal's figures are those of 1939 and figures available from the Bureau of Statistics, Ottawa, for the eight months ending August, 1940, show an import increase of fruits and vegetables into this country over 1939 of almost $3,000,000.

The Ottawa Journal editorial follows: "Guns or butter?" demanded Goering. The answer, spontaneous or not, was unanimous. "Arms or appetizers?" is a question before Canadians today. "Shall we put equipment in the hands of our troops or eat the price of it?"

The United States is the only country from which we can buy the essentials to keep our troops in fighting trim until our own production overtakes our needs, and for every bomber or bullet that we get the conditions are "cash and carry."

The dollar that we pay for table luxuries is a dollar less with which to buy arms.

The United States will get the dollar anyhow, but what do we choose to take in exchange—military necessities or civilian luxuries?

Last year we paid the United States $13,578,933 for fresh fruits, a large part of them being pre-season varieties that Canadian gardens and orchards would later produce at lower cost and of higher quality. But our pampered appetites could not wait. We had to have strawberries in January, and before June brought our own fruit in superabundance, we had imported $500,000 worth—the cost of a squadron of fighter planes.

For grapes we paid more than $1,000,000—for which we could have had 200 light tanks. Apples, peaches, pears and plums—all available in finer tree-ripened quality in our own country a few weeks later—cost us $1,344,000 or the price of 2,500 heavy machine guns. Melons cost us $227,000, the equivalent of about 100 ambulances.

In the vegetable field, we ate United States tomatoes, potatoes and celery to the value of 25 big bomber planes. We had our dainty dinners and Berliners were spared the bombs! Lettuce, cabbage, carrots and green peas cost us another million dollars.

Citrus fruits have a higher medicinal value—but did we eat $8,350,000 worth because the state of our health demanded them, or just because we liked them? (This figure does not include $590,000 worth of United States grapefruit juice, although at least two very fine brands of tropic-ripened British West Indian juice are offered in our grocery shops).

Can we live without bananas? We bought $1,263,000 worth from the United States last year. For that money we could have had several mine-sweepers.

For dried fruits we paid the United States $1,738,000. Let us not forget that the finest raisins are grown in Australia by veterans of the last Great War.

Our resources of United States exchange are all too limited. We cannot borrow in New York as we did before. Every dollar that goes across the line for other than war essentials is a dollar gone from our fighting-power. Shall twenty million Canadian dollars that might buy munitions of war go for table luxuries in the next twelve months?

The answer lies with Canadian housewives.

The mystery of the missing Italian fleet continues to confound us. A thought is that Mussi may be saving it for the 1941 manoeuvres.

So it's Roosevelt. Most of us in Canada are pleased simply because we know Roosevelt and he can get along with his work now. Willie probably would have been just as anxious to help Britain but we know Roosevelt. It was not a question whether the U.S. would continue to aid Britain, for most of the people across the border fully realize now that Britain is fighting their war and they can do nothing else than help to their utmost.

WAR SAVINGS COMMITTEE HEADS MEET IN OTTAWA

National and provincial chairmen of the war savings committee were told of the importance of real savings as a part of the Canadian war effort when they called on the Prime Minister at his office in the East Block, Parliament Buildings, Ottawa. Here they are shown: Seated, from left to right, de Gaspé Beaulieu, joint national chairman; Hon. J. L. Halsey, Minister of Finance; the Prime Minister, Mr. Mackenzie King, and W. H. Somerville, joint national chairman. Standing, left to right, Napoleon Charest, Montreal, P.Q.; W. K. McKean, Halifax, N.S.; John Burns, Calgary, Alta.; R. LeSueur, Toronto, Ont.; W. G. Yule, Regina, Sask.; George E. Harbour, Saint John, N.B.; R. P. Jellott, Montreal, P.Q.; E. T. Higgs, Charlottetown, P.E.I.; E. J. Farr, K.C., Winnipeg, Man., and Chris Spencer, Vancouver, B.C.

The Battle of Greece

By WILLSON WOODSIDE

Willson Woodside

Perhaps we are only fooling ourselves. Perhaps the attack on Greece represents the carefully-planned opening move in a joint Axis winter campaign in the Mediterranean. Perhaps it is a cunning trap to draw British forces from Egypt to the support of the Greeks, so that Graziani may push on the more easily towards Alexandria, and to draw a Turkish army across that narrow strip of Greek Thrace to Salonika, so that a German force can strike swiftly down through Bulgaria and cut it off.

Nevertheless, there are many curious things about this attack which argue that it is not a thin Axis move but Mussolini's own show, and that he began it in a hurry, and in something of a peeve against his German ally. How else can one account for the failure to make any attempt to seize strategically important Crete and the Greek islands of the Aegean, which would be so useful to the Axis in the next step, threatening Turkey? This was a job for parachute and air-transported troops and would have been handled by the Germans, as the Italians have done very little in this line. How else account for the lack of powerful German tank units leading the land attack, if German dive bombers terrorizing the most unprotected Greek cities, and of a well-organized Fifth Column creating confusion throughout Greece. All these things were expected, and none have so far materialized.

Have the Axis partners therefore disagreed, and Mussolini stuck off on his own? Here is a chain of circumstantial evidence which might support such an agreeable conclusion. I gave it on the radio last week, but I shall set it down briefly here where it can be better examined. At the time of the French armistice Italy was treated almost contemptuously by Germany. She was not invited to the main negotiations at Compiegne, and apparently received no German support in her own separate negotiations, as she was only able to secure the occupation of the territory which she had conquered, a strip about five miles deep. Hitler seems to have renewed his promise that to the first settlement Italy would get her much-coveted Nice, Corsica and Tunisia. But it would be more than human if at some point in the proceedings a German spokesman did not say impatiently to an Italian: "If you want so much, why don't you go and take something for yourselves?"

A month later Mussolini began a violent agitation against Greece, culminating in the dastardly torpedoing of a Greek cruiser during a religious celebration. There were reports at the time that Germany was displeased with the timing of this Italian action, which threatened to set the whole Balkans—Germany's main supply warehouse—afire, at a time when the Reich's entire attention and effort were engaged in smothering Britain. From what happened, it seems as though Hitler got his junior partner on the telephone and urged him very sharply to lay off the Greeks for now and get busy and help fight the common enemy. For of a sudden the agitation against Greece faded out and shortly afterward the Libyan Army began to move into Egypt. It soon sat down, however, to wait until the Germans had smashed British resistance at home.

When Hitler failed it is hardly likely that he felt it necessary to apologize to Mussolini. Instead he turned from Britain to the Balkans and quickly recouped his fortunes and prestige with the seizure of Roumania. Again there was nothing in the divvy for Italy, although I remember seeing an item in the Italian press at that time saying that Greece must be Italy's Roumania. When Hitler re-arranged the settlement with France, however, swapping the things which were to be Italy's for bases and aerodromes which would establish German power all through Italy's own Mediterranean Sea, the limit was reached. Mussolini seems to have decided then and there to get something for himself—because Italy too needs prestige victories from time to time—deeds to have hurried off his 8-hour ultimatum to Athens, and got his offensive under way before Hitler and Keitel could rush down to Florence to reason with him.

This theory may be right, and the dictators may have been a good deal less cordial towards one another than the communists stressed that day. But it is a long way from that to imagining that the quarrel won't be patched up, or that Hitler can afford to stand by and let Mussolini's venture fail. The question is: has Hitler the way sufficiently prepared to send troops across Yugoslavia or Bulgaria which he most decidedly does not want, and what would Russia's attitude be towards the taking over of these Slav states?

Kelowna In Bygone Days

(From the files of the Kelowna Courier)

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Thursday, October 27, 1910

"The new bell of the Presbyterian Church was put into regular use for the first time on Sunday last. It is of lower pitch than the bell of St. Michael and All Angels, which has served for many years to call the faithful of all churches to worship, and has a sweet tone. It somewhat resembles the fire bell in sound, and its first trial last week gave some of the members of the Brigade quite a scare."

"A number of American Indians, returning from hop-picking at the Coldstream Ranch, passed through town on Friday, and the ferry had a busy time transporting them across the lake, 115 head of horses being handled. The Indians look quite a different type from our own aborigines, most of them being tall and heavy, with long hair, and their habit of wearing tall, crowned, wide-brimmed felt hats, long hair and gaudy ornaments of various kinds, makes the difference more accentuated."

"In the presence of large congregations at every service in the new Presbyterian Church was opened for worship on Sunday. The pastor, Rev. A. K. W. Herdman, and the congregation were favored with the presence of Rev. Dr. McKay, principal of Westminster Hall, Vancouver, whose eloquent and scholarly addresses were followed with deep attention by his hearers. He made a fine instrument of possession, his earnestness and richness of tone together with a good measure of power."

"The church was filled to overflowing at the evening service, the estimated attendance being well over six hundred—probably the largest number yet assembled at one time and in one place in Kelowna. A hundred chairs were provided in the aisles, but a number of people could find standing room only in the tower."

"Rev. Dr. Mackay preached a masterly sermon, holding the rapt attention of his hearers with the history of worship from the earliest ages."

"Later, Rev. Mr. Herdman thanked most heartily the clergymen of other denominations who had materially assisted the success of the dedication by withdrawing services. In the Baptist Church, both morning and evening services were withdrawn, as also was the new organ, which is a fine instrument of possession, his earnestness and richness of tone together with a good measure of power."

"The church was filled to overflowing at the evening service, the estimated attendance being well over six hundred—probably the largest number yet assembled at one time and in one place in Kelowna. A hundred chairs were provided in the aisles, but a number of people could find standing room only in the tower."

"Rev. Dr. Mackay preached a masterly sermon, holding the rapt attention of his hearers with the history of worship from the earliest ages."

"The collections at the three services totalled nearly $600."

In connection with the dedication of the new church, a supper was served by the ladies of the congregation on Monday night in the old church, following which a public meeting was held in the new building. Mr. G. E. Boyer presided and was supported on the platform by Rev. Messrs. Hood, Summerland, Welch, Davidson and Herdman, of Kelowna; T. Conn, of Okanagan Centre, and Vance, of Rutland, all of whom spoke in congratulatory vein.

Mayor Sutherland, as chairman of the Building Committee, stated the cost of the building as $15,500, with $3,500 more for fittings.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Thursday, October 28, 1920

"The big C.P.R. steamer 'Empress of Asia' had a large shipment of Okanagan apples for the Orient when she cleared from Vancouver last Thursday."

"At a meeting of the Okanagan Mission Local of the United Farmers of B.C., held on October 26, it was decided unanimously to take no part as a body either in the pending Dominion by-election in Yale or the forthcoming provincial general election, leaving it to individual members to vote according to their personal opinions."

TEN YEARS AGO

Thursday, October 30, 1930

"The 'Da-Nite' indoor miniature golf course on the top floor of the B. McDonald Garage was opened to the public on Saturday evening. It is an attractive 18-hole course with difficult hazards."

"Members of the Fire Brigade rushed to the Fire Hall on Monday at 5 p.m., when sharp blasts of the siren rent the air, only to find that their services were not required. The grounding of a wire, caused by the felling of a tree in the city, was responsible for the false alarm."

"Wild shrieks, whoops and yells, coming from the United Church gymnasium on Monday night, made more than one citizen peek in, then step in a little further—and then, like the camel of the fable, get right inside to see the fun, for fun it was. The cause of the disturbance was a number of stalwart business and professional men thoroughly enjoying the thrills and excitement of volleyball. It was stimulating to see them throwing themselves into the game and getting as much kick—and perhaps a little more—out of it than the youth in his teens gets out of basketball. It was the first rally of players before the beginning of the league games on Monday next, and volleyball was sold completely and absolutely to the newcomers."

"Tax collections in the City of Kelowna up to October 20th, inclusive, showed receipt of 91.6 per cent of the levy for 1930. The tax rate was 45 mills."

"Reports submitted at the annual general meeting of the Kelowna Hospital Women's Auxiliary, held on October 27th, showed a satisfactory cash balance on hand at the close of the financial year. Officers elected for 1931 were: Honorary President, Mrs. M. E. Cameron; President, Mrs. H. B. Everard; First Vice-President, Mrs. B. Hoy; Second Vice-President, Mrs. S. M. Simpson; Treasurer, Mrs. W. R. Foster; Secretary, Mrs. R. C. Neish; Standing Committee: Mrs. Grote Stirling, Mrs. H. K. Todd, Mrs. D. H. Rattenbury, Mrs. H. C. S. Collett, Mrs. G. L. Campbell, Mrs. A. J. Cameron."

"The Kelowna Street Festival, held on October 23rd which 75 per cent was earmarked for the Hospital and the social work of Toc H, proved an outstanding financial success, despite the handicap of wet weather, the net receipts amounting to approximately $4,500, of which 75 per cent was earmarked for the Hospital and 25 per cent for Toc H. The total amount of sales of admission tickets, less commissions, was $2,043.50, the balance of receipts being made up of monies earned by the amusement features, a dance in the Scout Hall and cash donations."

p.m.'s column

THERE IS ONE THING that I am definitely not going to eat this year. The Jap orange. It's a pity, too, because I like it. But this year I know that my stomach would not hold it even though my conscience be sufficiently hardened to attempt to insult my stomach. It would be rather a nice thing if there were no Jap oranges sold in Kelowna this year. That, of course, is too much to expect and one can't blame the storekeepers altogether for they sell what the public demands. But if Mrs. Kelowna told her grocer that she would not be buying any Jap oranges this year, he would make haste to cancel the orders he now has placed. That would cause little inconvenience to him as the orders are subject to cancellation . . .

WHAT IS WRONG with Jap oranges? Nothing, with the fruit itself. But it goes too much against the grain for me to deliberately purchase something which is going to put even just a little money in the pockets of "hostile neutral" nations such as Japan. Why should I deprive Canada's war effort of some financing and assist Japan's just to give my palate a pleasing tinkle for a transitory moment. It just doesn't make sense. If our palates mean more to us than our war effort, God help us . . .

WITHIN THE SPAN of a week there were a couple of items in the dailies of interest to motorists . . . and who of us today isn't a motorist? The first announced a new system of highway marking developed in Ontario and the other told of a meeting held in Ottawa to further tourist travel plans and one of the suggested improvements was the adoption by all provinces of the Ontario markings, which were admitted to be superior. It seems the Ontario highway engineers and a corps of chemists have been working on the problem for two decades and finally have "got something" . . .

MOST OF US CAN remember that when the early cars chugged along the dirt roads at the reckless speed of twenty miles an hour, perhaps the main traffic problem was to get the car out of the ruts when one saw another coming along. Improved roads and cars meant faster travelling and that necessitated new devices for the protection of the public. Hills were cut and ponds were bridged or filled in to take the worst kinks out of the highway. Sharp corners became long, sweeping, banked curves; roadside ditches shrank. Nevertheless some hazards still remained; blind curves, for instance, cut visibility. And so that motorists might know what to expect beyond their field of vision, the engineers erected painted signs on the shoulders of the road . . .

ONE PROBLEM, HOWEVER, is no sooner solved than another arises. As speed limits rose, more and more hazards had to be marked. Warning signs on the shoulders of the road multiplied. In lettered words they told of railroad crossings, intersections, curves, winding roads and what-not, until they rivalled one another for the driver's attention and dulled his observation by sheer weight of numbers. Even when briefly worded warnings were reduced to psychological symbols—arrows, split, angled and curved—that conveyed their meanings in a flash, signs on the shoulder of the road sometimes escaped the driver's attention . . .

HERE WAS ANOTHER problem for the engineer . . . how to relieve the driver of attention fatigue, and yet keep him advised of the hazards ahead so that he might safeguard his own life and the lives of others on the road. It seemed that somehow many of these roadside messages must be moved to the pavement itself where they could register their warning subconsciously with little effort on the part of the driver. Long before his necessity was fully realized men with brush and paint pot went out to particularly hazardous hillclimbs and curves and painted lines between the traffic lanes. Even uninformed motorists, seeing those lines for the first time, sensed that they were put there for their protection and that to cross them was to invite disaster . . .

AND NOW IN 1940 engineers of the Ontario Department of Highways have produced a new code of highway markings, using various combinations of painted lines on the pavement, to supplement and reduce the number of signs on the roadside. On concrete roads, of course, like the Queen Elizabeth Way, a four-lane super-highway, with centre boulevard and clover-leaf intersections, traffic lanes are already marked by the black line made by the break in the concrete blocks. No painted lines are needed there, except perhaps a few on isolated hills or curves. Most of Ontario's highways, however, are of asphalt, black top variety, with two, three or four traffic lanes. It is on these black top roads that the new code of traffic lines has developed . . .

THE NEW CODE FEATURES double lines in the centre of the road over hills and around curves. Sometimes both lines are solid; or one is solid and the other broken into dashes. If the line nearest the driver is solid, he must not cross it or attempt to pass the car ahead. If the near line is broken, he may cross it if he sees that the road ahead is clear, because the line is broken or solid according to the distance a driver can see ahead. If you are approaching the crest of a hill, the line on your side will be solid where your visibility is cut to less than 700 feet. The other line may be broken because the driver coming down the hill may have unobstructed visibility and can see whether it is safe to cross, not only the broken line at his side but the solid line beside it. When you have passed the crest and have gained visibility, the line on your side will be broken . . .

THE SAME PRINCIPLE applies on curves where trees or other obstructions cut visibility. At some points, visibility is blocked in both directions, so both lines are solid. Fairly open curves, on the other hand, and clear stretches of two-lane highway, may have only a single broken line down the centre, permitting passing in either direction as traffic allows. Three-lane highways have two broken lines, ten feet apart, separating the lanes, indicating that traffic in either direction may cross into the centre lane as traffic permits. On curves and hills a three-lane highway becomes a two-lane highway with a solid line down the centre. Four-lane highways have a solid line down the centre, with broken lines dividing the lanes on either side. Drivers need only keep to the right of all solid lines, and use care in crossing broken lines, to be guided safely in the proper traffic lanes as if riding a railway under despatcher's orders. When approaching a through road, formerly marked only by a stop sign at the side of the road, or when there is a traffic signal light, a solid strip of paint, twelve inches wide and across the full width of the traffic lane, now warns of the stop. Paint on the pavement can hardly fail to attract the driver's attention in any kind of light. Even in thick fog, when they may be the only visible guides, one needs only to follow the advice of the painted lines to ride in comparative safety. And this is the system it is suggested that every province in Canada should adopt . . .

GLENMORE W.A.C. DRIVE MEETING WITH SUCCESS

Canvassers are Busy Making Rounds of Residences—Hallowe'en is Quiet Affair

The W.A.C. representatives at Glenmore, including Mrs. G. H. Moulbray, Mrs. C. T. D. Russell, Mrs. G. C. Hume and Mrs. R. W. Corner, began canvassing early last week and have been meeting with very good success.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Kennedy left on Sunday last by car for a holiday to be spent at the Coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lloyd-Jones, who had resided in a house owned by Geo. Flinck, moved on Thursday last and have taken up residence in Kelowna.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Wilson returned on Wednesday of last week from a ten days' motor trip up to Little Fork. They were accompanied by Mrs. Wilson's cousin, Miss Dorothy Woodward, who returned home after spending the fall with her cousins.

Hallowe'en passed off very quietly here this year with only a few spooks calling for good things to eat, and no complaints have been heard of gates being taken off or other mischief being done.

HALLOWE'EN AT OYAMA GAY AFFAIR

Big Bonfire, Parade, Prizes and Dance are Features

The Oyama Community Hall is the centre of fun and frolic each year at Hallowe'en. Claude Bissell, the headmaster of the public school, instituted a school party a few years ago and it has since become an annual affair. The young people meet in fancy costumes at the school, and then have a torch parade to a field near by, where the "Spirit of Hallowe'en" is burned on a huge bonfire, to the accompaniment of singing and dancing and the sound of hundreds of firecrackers. The party then winds its way to the community hall, and after the grand march, prizes are awarded for the best costumes; then come games, races, supper and dancing till a late hour. Gwen and Shirley Whipple and Joan Beebe won first prize this year and created much merriment with their stage horse. Charles MacLaren took the boy's first prize, with his war savings costume. Barbara Craig made a handsome "cowboy," Jean Norman looked charming as "Mary had a little lamb," and Harry Smith was a colorful miniature "Mountie." Mrs. Beaton Smith and Mrs. Gordon McClure kindly provided the music for dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Craig had as visitors last week Mrs. H. V. Acland, Kelowna, and Mrs. John Acland, of Paradise Ranch, Naramata.

Miss Stead, of Victoria, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. R. Prickard.

1ST RUTLAND TROOP

"Do a good turn daily"

Orders for the week ending Nov. 9th: The troop will parade in the Community Hall on Friday, at 7.30 p.m. sharp. Full uniform to be worn. Duty Patrol: Foxes.

Owing to the unsettled weather, the hike planned for the past week-end had to be cancelled. A one-day hike will probably be held later in November.

Rutland will send a delegation of at least four and possibly five Patrol Leaders to the Okanagan Patrol Leaders Conference in Vernon next Saturday and Sunday.

At the meeting on Friday last there was an increase in attendance over the previous week, there being five new recruits on parade, Alvin McKenzie, Joe Holitzki, Robert Charlton, M. Tamag and L. Schenberger.

Former Peachland Man Spends Night in Hills on Hunting Trip

Hugh Williams Returns to Camp After Lonely Night—Overseas Parcels are Sent by Comfort Club

Hugh Williams, of Peachland, who is also a former resident of Peachland, was last night while hunting last week and spent Tuesday night, October 29, out in the hills above Peachland. In company with Mr. Nesbitt, of Peachland, he drove up the Glen that day and parked his car at the Fred Gartrell cabin, seventeen miles from Peachland.

Both Nesbitt and Williams hunted in different directions, one heading north from the camp and the other south. Nesbitt returned safely but fears for his companion's safety were felt when there was no sign of him Wednesday morning. He went outside and fired several shots, the first two of which were answered. Each shot seemed to come from a different direction and he was unable to locate Williams.

The latter part of the keys of the car in his pocket so Nesbitt walked the seventeen miles into Peachland to get help. A search was organized by Constable Hemmingway but without success. The cabin Williams had made his way in and was none the worse for his adventure.

Overseas Parcels

Christmas parcels for Peachland men overseas left on Wednesday, October 30. These parcels, which were packed by the Comfort Club, contained $5 worth of articles, a tin of Peachland honey, a fruit cake, a pair of hand-knitted socks, handkerchiefs, home made candy, a flashlight and batteries, a packet of cheese, gum, chocolate bars, tobacco and cigarettes.

Two of Peachland's overseas soldiers, Bill Roberts and Stan Wright, having been transferred from the Seafarths, Neil Evans is with a gun crew on anti-aircraft, while Bill Earl is still with the Seafarths. The latter is pianist for an orchestra of eighteen and hopes some time to broadcast over the B.C. Bill Roberts has been able to visit some of his relatives in England, and an uncle who lives in Tottenham, London, in writing to his sister, Mrs. T. Roberts, says: "The London people can take more than the Germans can give. If you could see the London people today you would be surprised in spite of what the Germans have already done. Don't worry, all will be well in the end."

Hallowe'en Parties

The Hallowe'en dance, arranged by the staff of Walter's Ltd. packing house, and the party at the school to satisfy the pixies here on Hallowe'en, are aside from the knocking over of one fence there was no magic done. The usual visits to children with odd faces were made, but these were fewer than usual because of party fun, which no one wanted to miss. At the dance a large crowd was present who had an enjoyable time. The Athletic Hall was decorated with evergreens and large paper rosettes, with Hallowe'en pumpkins decorating the orchestra stand. The Melody Boys supplied the music for the occasion. Refreshments were served by members of the packing house staff.

Mrs. A. Smalls, convener of the Red Cross work committee, reports a large shipment of Red Cross supplies sent out last week. These included 6 quilts made by the Women's Institute, which have made a quilt a week for the Red Cross since they took over this work, and a number of infants' garments that have been on hand for some time. The committee was anxious to make up the complete layettes in each case but had been unable to get wool for the knitted garments. On her recent visit, Mrs. H. A. Ramsden, Provincial Convener, advised sending in all completed garments, which could be made up into layettes at Vancouver, from the various shipments sent in. The total shipment was made up as follows: 10 sweaters, 48 pairs socks, 8 pairs pyjamas, 12 bed gowns, 80 handkerchiefs, 6 ladies' nightgowns, 15 babies' gowns, 28 babies' petticoats, 144 napkins, 6 quilts, 4 blankets, 1 rug, 22 pairs children's mitts, 2 pairs wristlets, 1 child's sweater, 1 pantie dress, 2 babies' blankets, 2 babies' jackets, 2 bonnets, 8 pairs booties.

SECOND TRAINING CENTRE CAMP TO OPEN NOV. 22

Young Men 21, 22 and 23 Years of Age to be Called for Month's Training at Vernon and Gordon Head

With the second 30-day military training period scheduled to commence November 22, notices have been issued by the registrars of the thirteen Divisional Boards of the National War Services Department to single men of 21 and 22, and a small number in the 23-year-old class, to report for medical examination.

In making this announcement, Major-General L. R. LeFleche, Associate Deputy Minister, stated that the instructions make it clear that all medical practitioners in good standing throughout Canada have been appointed examining physicians by Hon. James G. Gardiner, Minister of National War Services, and that all examination fees will be paid by the department. At the same time, he stressed the fact that each man must sign the medical examination form on which appears the doctor's report on his physical condition.

In British Columbia, the two training centres are at Vernon and Gordon Head.

Major-General LeFleche pointed out that since the time of national registration—last August—many young men have enrolled in universities and colleges, or have joined the Navy, Army, Air Force or a Non-Permanent Active Militia unit. "If notices to report for medical examination should be received by any of these men, they must immediately inform the registrar whose name appears on the upper left hand corner of the notice, he stated. "Their speedy co-operation in this connection will enable registrars to obtain other eligible young men to complete the required quota."

Any application for postponement of training must be made to the Divisional Registrar within eight clear days of the date appearing on the notice for medical examination. Following the same procedure adopted in the case of the first group of young men called upon to undergo military training, those in the second group who are found to be medically fit will be notified. Transport warrants, covering transportation from the recorded place of residence to the indicated training centre, will be issued if necessary.

It is all the easier to help the Greeks because in doing so we are helping ourselves. Every bomb which hits its mark is a blow at Italy's military strength. at the conclusion that these statements, if made, would be considered prejudicial, as a recent case in Ontario acted as a precedent for this locality. Even if the statements had been uttered in the comparative backwoods, they could be presumed to be prejudicial, he declared.

Principal witnesses for the prosecution were named as Erith Nelson, a Swede; Josephine Swire, an Indian girl who is Nelson's common law wife; and Jack Howart, a man born in Bessarabia.

Animosly Was Defence

Magistrate McWilliams ruled that the defence had not attempted to break down the actual statements of these witnesses, but had been intent in endeavoring to prove that the witnesses showed animosity to the accused.

The accused, Gehrig, had flatly denied making the statements and had professed loyalty to Canada, the country which he had entered eleven years ago. He had told the court, the magistrate pointed out, that he had severed his connections with his native land and had endeavored to make a new life in this country of his adoption.

Gehrig is an intelligent man and he knew the trend of world affairs in the last few years," declared Magistrate McWilliams. "But he has lived in Canada eleven years and has made no attempt to become naturalized."

On the basis of this fact, Magistrate McWilliams tended to discredit Gehrig's profession of loyalty to Canada.

The magistrate also dwelt on the attempt by the defence to prove that Gehrig was "framed." One other witness was said to have made these statements, not Gehrig, according to evidence produced by the defence.

"I am unable to accept the claim that Gehrig was framed," declared His Worship.

After pointing out that it was a difficult case in which to come to a decision, Magistrate McWilliams then stated that the accused has the right to appeal.

MAYOR McKAY NEW PREXY OF KELOWNA CLUB

Succeeds H. A. Truswell to Helm of Directorate of Business Men's Club in Kelowna—Eight Members on Active Service

Mayor G. A. McKay was the unanimous choice of the Kelowna Club at its annual meeting held on Wednesday evening, October 30, as President for the 1941 season, succeeding H. A. Truswell to the post. Directors were unopposed in the election of officers and the directorate will comprise E. M. Carruthers, D. C. E. Angus, M. W. Horn, W. F. L. Roadhouse and J. D. Whitham. Mr. Lane and Mr. Roadhouse are new members of the committee. H. A. Truswell remains a director as Past President.

H. B. Everard has again been appointed Secretary and D. Currell is Auditor once more. It was revealed in the President's report that the Kelowna Club has a membership of 1441, made up as follows: Resident, 109; non-resident, 30; absentee, 10; honorary, 6. Of the active membership, eight have joined active service forces, as follows: H. A. Angus, M. W. Horn, W. F. L. Roadhouse, Dr. Lloyd Day, W. Embrey, George Handlen, Nigel Pooley and Jack Treadgold.

Four members of the Club passed away in the last two months, these being: Norman Hunt, Nelson; Muir Stewart, Summerland; Cecil E. Clarke, Westbank; and O. J. Jennings, Kelowna.

The loyal and efficient administration of the Secretary, D. Currell, came in for a good deal of praise from the members and the directorate and votes of thanks were proffered them, as well as the retiring directorate and the press.

Special mention was made of a gift of plants from H. B. D. Lyons, for the flower beds in the grounds. A number of recommendations for improvements to the building and grounds were passed and passed on to the incoming directorate to decide.

More About—

5 APPLE LEADER

chee World as follows:

As B.C. growers possess popular sizes, American buyers have taken them. All supplies have been sold firm, and there has been no speculation and no consignment shipments. None has been dumped on the market. Quality of British Columbia apples is good, and due to their loss of exports, Canadian growers are in a tougher spot than here (Wenatchee), as they do have a nation of 130,000,000 customers.

Furthermore, British Columbia growers are more exercised over U.S. fruits and vegetables coming into Canada than we are over Canadian exports. Quality of British Columbia apples is good, and due to their loss of exports, Canadian growers are in a tougher spot than here (Wenatchee), as they do have a nation of 130,000,000 customers.

Dealing with the statement that B.C. apples are causing the Wenatchee growers a serious loss, A. K. Loyd has produced a number of recent statements showing prices received on the Chicago auction market. Most of the apples sold by B. C. Tree Fruits at firm prices here have gone on to the U.S. auction markets.

Washington Delicious were quoted on one sheet at 39 cents below the B.C. Delicious of all sizes. On another sheet the difference in average sales amounted to eleven cents on extra fancy, over the size range.

Turning to Jonathans, the difference in sales in favor of B.C. apples amounted to 39 cents, 33 cents and 27 cents. On fancy Jonathans the B.C. supplies led Washington sales by 24 cents, 22 cents and 9 cents.

"This would hardly indicate that the B.C. apples were undercutting the Washington apples," replied Mr. Loyd. "We merely have better quality and a better size range."

Continuing with his reply to the Wenatchee protests, Mr. Loyd stated: "It is true that we have dumping clauses which are designed to protect us from unlimited and low-priced importations, to the detriment of our own growers. We believe that the administration of these clauses has been very fair, and it can be said that, on occasion, we have refrained from requesting protection even when we could very reasonably have used it, because, in the opinion of those entrusted with its enforcement, the situation did not altogether warrant invoking this aid."

Conserve Exchange

Under present-day war conditions, few things are more essential to the successful prosecution of the war, and to the proper functioning of Canadian industry in its relation to the general war effort, than the conservation of exchange. The purchases by this country from the United States for munitions, equipment, planes, tanks, and almost every conceivable article for use on the war fronts, has been tremendous. It is hard for us to understand how our American friends can justify the antagonistic, unfriendly and sectional attitude, which, for the sake of a few cents of fruit, they have absorbed in their market. They have been willing to adopt. The total importations are an infinitesimal amount of the trade carried on annually between these commodities in the United States. At no time has a campaign been waged by us for markets on the other side of the line.

"It would be possible to go further into the various misleading and contradictory statements that have been publicly made by various interests in the State of Washington. Political feelings have been expressed to, and advantage taken of, the election to enlist the ready sympathy of prospective candidates. All of this we would prefer to disregard. If the American people feel they have any fair basis for object-

Certificates, while I appreciate the spirit of it, and no real harm has been done, I would suggest that, if you wish to hold another such ceremony, it would be better to return the Certificates to us for cancellation and we would send you duplicates, which could be used for a bonfire. When Certificates are destroyed, although the Government will never be called upon to make payment for them, it is obliged to carry them in its books indefinitely as a debt. I hope you will accept this explanation in the spirit in which it is given.

"With renewed thanks to you and to the other citizens of Kelowna, I am, "Yours very truly,"

"J. L. ILSLEY."

On the following day, November 1, Mr. Ilsley despatched a further letter to Mayor McKay, which arrived here in the same mail. It read: "Since yesterday, I have read your letter more carefully and note that it was War Savings Stamps which were destroyed, not War Savings Certificates.

"It would, of course, be impossible to duplicate the Certificates for another such ceremony, but what I said about carrying the amount on our books as a debt still holds good."

"If, however, as I told you, no harm has been done, and I am merely dropping you this additional note to correct my mistake."

In the column, "Canada's War Effort," of this issue, mention is made of the number of war savings stamps which have been burned in Canada. The estimate amounts to $25,000, which is a direct contribution to Canada's war effort.

ing to legitimate trade of this kind, then we are more than willing to get together with them and discuss it. We do not think that they have, and cannot see that mutual good feelings can be furthered, or their reputation for fairness enhanced, by the campaign at present in full cry in some communities in Washington.

Import Figures

"For many years past, Canada has imported from the United States tremendous quantities of fresh fruit and vegetables, and this has been consistently an increasing trade. We might quote figures for the years 1938-1939 to indicate the extent to which this has risen. In 1938, a grand total of $19,158,360 was imported into Canada, of which $15,982,900 came from the United States. Corresponding figures for 1939-1940 are $21,672,183 and $19,053,866. The corresponding export of Canadian fruits and vegetables is a small fraction, in 1938, $1,345,076, and in 1939, $1,705,050."

"The apple crop of the United States averages around 115 million boxes, compared with a Canadian crop of approximately 17 million boxes. In most years, it would be extremely improbable that any great quantity of Canadian fruit would move to the markets across the line. This year, certain things were definitely in favor of the Canadian crop. His sales compared very favorably with the average size grown in the apple-producing states of Washington and Oregon. His quality was as good, if not better, than the home product. Consequently, since early in the summer, consistent applications have been made, particularly to British Columbia, to ship part of their crop to fill the gap left by the lack of proper sizes to the south."

"At the beginning of the season, various totally unfounded rumors were given credence in the press of the western states, and finally achieved the fantastic high point where it stated in the Chicago Packer: 'that a plan was in process of formation for the shipment of 5,000 carloads of jumbled crates into American markets from British Columbia.' Inasmuch as this would include almost the entire crop, we felt that its absurdity was sufficient to discredit it. In the meanwhile, the situation as to possible movement across the line was investigated by competent agricultural officials from Washington, D.C., with Mr. Motz' reaction already given in previous paragraphs."

Promised Protest

When this Wenatchee district group met last week every delegate present agreed to go home and solicit his local growers, businessmen, shippers, chamber or commerce, etc., asking them to send wires and letters of protest."

One man made the statement that 523 cars of Canadian apples had been shipped into the U.S. this year to October 30, compared with only 42 cars for all of last season. The Wenatchee World article admitted that the figures for this year's shipments included those going to South America, via the United States.

Tree Fruit Ltd. states that approximately 150 cars of B.C. apples were shipped to South America up to the end of October, so that the United States market has only taken about 375 cars of B.C. apples.

"The Jonathan market in St. Louis and Chicago has already been shattered and imported fruit is threatening the Delicious markets of New York and cities of Texas and California," one enraged delegate to the Wenatchee meeting is quoted as declaring.

The figures already quoted on B.C. apples sales into the United States would hardly indicate any truth in this statement, it has been pointed out.

For the first nine months of 1940, all imports from the United States into Canada had increased by $2,366,608 over the first nine months of 1939 while exports from Canada to the United States had only increased $481,397. It was revealed here on Wednesday.

Vegetable Growers Show Little Interest in Annual Meetings to Hear Vegetable Board's Report

Only Scant Dozen Attend Kelowna Meeting and No Quorum at Westbank—Main Line Shows Equal Apathy but Osoyoos and Grand Forks More Interested—Healthy Vegetable Deal in Past Season Indicated with Tomato Cannery Prices Increased—One-Desk Sales Setup for Entire Deal is in Offing

MOST of the annual meetings of vegetable growers, called in the various interior districts of the main line and Okanagan Valley, have now been held, with disappointing attendance at every session except Osoyoos and Grand Forks. At one meeting, only seven turned up and at Kelowna the attendance hardly numbered more than twelve.

Principal announcement at these meetings, attended by members of the Interior Vegetable Marketing Board, told of a one-desk sales setup for vegetables, which is in the process of discussion. This plan may be put into practice for the balance of the crop-year to give some idea of its probable workings.

The board recognizes that the recent control obtained by the B.C. Fruit Board and through it, the B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., under the War Measures Act of the Dominion Government, has been the most important step in the sales control of fruit and vegetables.

R. B. Homersham, board member, outlined this phase of the industry setup to Kamloops and Ashcroft district growers last week. At the time, that Tree Fruits had been appointed the sole selling agency for all tree fruits in the area and thus, all shippers have been automatically brought into the deal.

Allied to Fruit
"By reason of the mixed car deal, that one vegetable is closely allied to fruit, and the rigid control on the one enjoins the closest co-operation in the sales control of the other," explained Mr. Homersham. "Realizing that opportunity offers to effect real stabilization at all points where the interior agency had not already established sales control in working more and more of a scheme which will embrace sales of all vegetables over the one desk, reserving, however, and maintaining intact, the central selling scheme already established by the board through the Interior Vegetable Marketing Agency, Ltd., at points where its own agency offices are located."

"The principal shippers on the main line, concerned chiefly in general vegetable sales to all markets have, I understand, agreed to the plan and have indicated their readiness to sign a simple agreement for the balance of the current season for order that the plan may be tried out for a beneficial result expected, may be proved," he declared.

Prairies Produce
Thos. Wilkinson, Chairman of the Marketing Board, explained to the growers at the Kelowna meeting, which was supposed to be held at Westbank, Okanagan Centre, Rutland, Joe Rich, Okanagan Mission and Kelowna, that prairie competition is becoming increasingly difficult to combat. The prairies are producing more and more vegetables and are crowding out the B.C. supplies.

On the whole, the quality of the prairie tomatoes is high and, this year, was perhaps even better than that sent from the interior of B.C., with the exception of Creston. Growers there, however, have no organization, are thus exploited, and the packout is poor.

"Our early vegetable deal this year was the best for a good many years," declared Mr. Wilkinson. This was principally because both coast and interior districts were exceptionally early and more produce cleared from markets before valley supplies were ready.

Other factors he mentioned were the lateness of the Ontario crop and the extensive frost damage to U.S. produce. "Our early fall opening prices were a record," he declared.

Not Permanent
"I do not want growers to jump to the conclusion that this is permanent, as there is nothing to indicate this." Despite representations, Ottawa has not announced any intended exchange restrictions which would lessen flow of U.S. produce.

The tomato deal was reviewed by Mr. Wilkinson, who pointed out that cannery prices were first set at $1 per ton more for both No. 1 and No. 2 than last year. After further negotiations, the No. 1 price was boosted another dollar.

Prospects for the coming season are "fairly bright," he said, as Ontario has a poor crop, down in quantity and quality.

"The war has neither hindered nor helped the vegetable deal, so far as I can see," the chairman declared. "It has helped buying in the cities, but purchasing power in the small towns is poor because the grain crop has not moved. Then there will be more and more 'war gardens' planted as land is broken up. Growers are likely to experience a 'very serious situation' with labor shortages, as war industries draw workers because of increased wages."

Kelowna Delegates
At this Kelowna meeting, the 1939 delegates were re-elected to attend the annual convention of the B.C. Interior Vegetable Marketing Board. They were H. B. D. Lysons, H. C. S. Collett and M. W. Marshall.

The Westbank meeting, which should have included representatives from Peachland and Summerland, had to be called off as the delegates were unable to present to form a quorum. Thus, Westbank will not be represented at the convention.

BENVOLIN
Inoculation of school children against scarlet fever has taken place in the Mission Creek and Benvoulin districts. A few cases have been found to be prevalent in the Mission Creek area. The Mission Creek school rooms have been closed for a week.

INDIAN REFUSES TO TALK SO GETS STIFFER SENTENCE

Additional 28 Days in Jail to be Served by Peter Joe as Price of His Silence

Peter Joe, an Indian from the Westbank Reserve, is to spend 38 days in jail as the result of refusing to talk to the Indian Act.

Peter Joe appeared before Magistrate McWilliams on Monday morning and was charged with intoxication, under the Indian Act. For that offence, he was to pay a fine of $5 and $17.50 costs or spend ten days in jail.

Then the Indian was asked where he obtained the liquor. He refused to tell, Joe told the court.

So, as Joe persisted in his silence, the Magistrate examined him further under Section 137 of the Indian Act, which requires Indians to inform the court as to the supplier.

As a result, Peter Joe found himself faced with another 14 days in jail, plus a fine of $15. As he will be unable to pay the fine, the default is a further fifteen days in jail, which all adds up to 38 days.

Donald, of Princeton, paid a surprise visit to Mr. and Mrs. Archibald on Friday of last week.

Sergt. J. H. Davy returned to Duncan, after spending a few days leave at his home, to rejoin A Squadron, 5th Canadian Motorcycle Regiment (B.C.D.).

HIGH SPOTS

of Kelowna Senior High School News

Kelowna was the focal point on Saturday, November 2, for the Okanagan Valley school football meet. Salmon Arm and Penticton were the competing teams in the playoff, Salmon Arm proving victorious with the score of 4-3. After the game, the boys were served refreshments in the school cafeteria. Mr. Logie presented the cup to the captain of the Salmon Arm team.

Last week, the school Ski Club was formed with Len Wade as President and Wilma Jenkins, Secretary. This club is affiliated with the Kelowna Ski Club and will make Saturday excursions to the ski hill to help clear trees from the downhill run.

A new war drive has been launched in the school, inaugurated by Mrs. E. W. Hamber, in aid of the London children whose homes have been destroyed. It will be in the form of money contributions and the goal has been set at $25.00.

A Penny Fair was staged Thursday by the girls in the Ripping Up department of the Sewing Club. The money collected was turned over to the Red Cross.

To Your Friends in "War Torn" England

A Gift This Year will be Appreciated More Than Ever Before—Parcels Should be Mailed by November 12th

As never before in their lifetime, friends and relatives, all the loved ones you hold so dear, will appreciate gifts from Canada this Christmas time.

After weeks and weeks of incessant bombing attacks, the thought of loved ones across the seas, who are remembering them, will come more dearly than ever before. This will not be a pleasant Christmas for many in the Motherland. For some, the depredations of war have not struck home with full force, but others have seen their homes ruined and friends and neighbors brutally sacrificed by a cruel invader from the air.

If, on the one day when, above all others, peace should reign throughout the world, a present from far across the seas reaches the homes in Great Britain, it will have more significance than at any other time in history.

There is not much time in which to prepare parcels for your relatives and friends in England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales. 'It is prohibited to announce the sailings of ships for the Old Country. This is only natural. Due to the necessity for convoys and other delays, parcels may take several weeks reaching their destinations.

So, residents of Kelowna and district should lose no time in preparing their parcels for delivery at Christmas in Great Britain. They should be sent within the next two weeks, at the latest, to ensure to the greatest possible extent, delivery by December 25.

In the advertising columns adjoining these few paragraphs, Kelowna merchants are listing a few of their many gift suggestions for friends, relatives and dear ones in the Old Country. If there is nothing to your liking in these columns, then a visit to the stores will lead to many important discoveries.

It is pointed out that the sending of silk gifts should not be practiced, due to excessive duty.

Allan: "Look at Mary; isn't she dolled up? I understand she bought that dress on the instalment plan."

James: "I suppose that's the first instalment she is wearing now."

DO IT THE EASY WAY

You were thinking you might be able to give $5.00 in cash to the war charities campaign this year? You would like to give more but Jim needs a new coat ... the boys need new shoes ... Bessie simply must have a dress ... you would like a new hat, but ... Christmas is coming and $5.00 is simply all you can scrape together at the moment ... you feel badly that you can't do more ...

WHY NOT DO IT THE EASY WAY?

Why not make arrangements of a dollar a month? Of course, that makes it easier! A dollar a month is easier to find than five dollars in a lump sum at the present time. And look how much you have helped the war charities ... a gift of twelve dollars instead of five ...

Do it the easy way and make everyone happy ...

PARCELS SHOULD BE ADDRESSED IN PROPER WAY

Improper Addresses Lead to Considerable Delay and Confusion and Sometimes Call for Increased Postal Rates

The Officer Commanding the Base Post Office, Canada, reports that thousands of improperly addressed letters and parcels are reaching there. This results in disappointment and complaints. Effort is made at the Base Post Office and at the Records Office Overseas to correct these insufficient addresses, but even so many articles are delayed in delivery and others have eventually to be returned to the senders as undeliverable.

The following is a description of the proper way in which mail for members of the Canadian Active Service Forces should be addressed: "When sending mail to the Army Overseas give the addressee's regimental number, rank, name, company or section, Squadron, Battery, Holding Unit, etc.—in addition to Regiment or Service, Base Post Office, Canada."

For example: C.2347, Sapper John Doe, 3rd Field Company, Royal Canadian Engineers, Base Post Office, Canada.

If addressee is overseas on a special course or advance party, he should be addressed accordingly.

For example: Flight-Lt. John Doe, R.C.A.F. Headquarters, Special Course Overseas, Base Post Office, Canada.

If the addressee is still in Canada, mail should not be addressed to the Base Post Office but to his Unit and Camp in Canada.

For example: L-47163, Bombardier John Doe, 11/69 Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, C.A.S.F., Field Post Office, Petawawa Camp, Ont."

The privilege of mailing parcels at the reduced postal rate is to apply only when such parcels are addressed to members of the Active Service Force in care of their respective units.

In some cases, however, it will be found that troops may be quartered in hotels and similar places converted for the use of the various units, or troops may be billeted at civil addresses. In such cases, parcels may be accepted at the reduced rate if the address includes the rank, regimental number (if in the ranks), unit, flight or squadron to which attached, in addition to the civil address. The address must include enough information to identify the addressee as an active member of His Majesty's armed forces. In all cases where the reduced rate is allowed, the rank and regimental address must appear in addition to the civil address.

For instance, a parcel addressed: Lieut. John Smith, c/o 19 Linthorpe Rd., North Gosforth, Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, would not be considered as intended for a military address, and would be subject to the regular civil parcel post rate of 24c for the first pound and 18c for each subsequent pound.

Fruit and vegetables (except the preserved kind in suitable containers) should not be enclosed in parcels for the troops overseas. A considerable number of reports have been received regarding the receipt by the Canadian Postal Corps Overseas of parcels containing fruit and vegetables in badly damaged condition. It is pointed out that conditions do not lend themselves to the transmission of fruit and vegetables by parcel post, and when these become decayed they not only damage other parcels but also the contents of the original parcel.

Several Cases of Scarlet Fever Reported and Junior Room of School is Closed—Scheduled Events are Postponed

There are several cases of scarlet fever in Okanagan Mission and precautions are being taken to prevent it from spreading. School children are being given the Dick Test and those who are susceptible are being immunized by inoculation. The Junior room has been closed for a week.

The St. Andrew's Parish Guild Jumble Sale scheduled for today has been postponed indefinitely until the scarlet fever epidemic is cleared up. The Guild card party will probably not be held till after Christmas.

Corporal A. R. Campbell, of the Fifth Canadian Motorcycle Regiment, was home on leave over the week-end and expects to leave the coast shortly for Calgary, where he will take a physical training instructor's course.

J. C. Clarence is a patient in the Kelowna Hospital.

Miss Winifred Baldwin returned last week from "three weeks" holiday spent in Vancouver and Victoria.

Rev. C. E. Davis took the service at St. Andrew's Church on Sunday afternoon.

At the church meeting on Friday night it was decided to form a committee of four to canvass Okanagan Mission for subscriptions for an assistant priest.

Hallowe'en in the Mission was much quieter this year and no damage was reported.

A novelty vegetable, a custard marrow or white patty pan marrow, as it is sometimes called, because of its shape, has been grown with great success by Miss Vaughan-Jones. The seed comes from Ontario and it is believed to be the first of its kind sown in this part of the valley. A photograph of a patty pan marrow appears in Life Magazine of November 4th. It was one of the things hurried at Wendell Willkie during his election campaign.

W. C. Renfrew has returned to the Mission after spending the summer in the east.

Privates H. Corley, Jack Bradley and Peter Mallam, of the Irish Fusiliers, have been transferred from Work Point Barracks to Prince Rupert.

M. L. Kuipers went on a hunting trip to Terrace Mountain over the week-end, but, unfortunately, had no luck as the deer are very high up this year. However, he was lucky enough to see a band of mountain sheep close at hand.

There is a petition being signed in Okanagan Mission to try and obtain better telephone service. For some time past telephone calls in the Mission have been very indistinct.

ALDERMAN TO INVESTIGATE
Ald. W. B. Hughes-Games has been asked by the City Council to investigate the request of L. F. Walrod for permission to erect two water closets at the rear of the Sunday School auditorium at the Bethel Church.

Ten-Year Program of Productive Work Advocated by Capt. Bull To Session of B.C. Legislature

Member for South Okanagan Makes Determined Stand in Favor of Planned Economy at End of Present Conflict—Unemployment After War will be Another Great Crisis—Urges Everyone to Think of Fundamentals of Economy as Determining Factor in Employment—Makes Three Recommendations

BEFORE the B.C. Legislature on Thursday afternoon, Capt. C. R. Bull, M.L.A. for South Okanagan, presented his views on the serious problem of unemployment and emphatically urged that every possible step be taken to have the difficulties ironed out by the time the present conflict is concluded. He advocated a ten-year program of productive work, planned by every municipality, with public housing and road improvement as its base. Bank of Canada Governor quoted on his views on Government borrowing. The main text of Capt. Bull's speech is given in the following quotations.

"I wish on this occasion to speak of those things which have been in my mind for some time and which I may have overlooked or avoided in the past when I have addressed this House.

"One does not know what the future holds and this may be my last opportunity, therefore I do not intend to be guilty of what I am so critical of, if I see it in others, of falling back on that old excuse: 'I knew so and so should be done, and such a thing should be said, but the time was not opportune, and the occasion did not arise.'"

Munich Crisis

"At the time of the Munich crisis it was quite apparent that Great Britain was woefully lacking in anti-aircraft defences, and that her air force, although of the first water in personnel and equipment, was absolutely inadequate numerically in comparison with the German air force, even for the portion of the contest it would have to assume with our ally, France.

"If war had broken out in 1938, it is impossible to say what the civilian losses might have been in the British Isles (but we've seen since what happened in Warsaw and is happening in London today), and to what extent the prosecution of the war might have been affected. But, undoubtedly, the bombing day by day of unprotected cities would have created a situation to test the greatest fortitude and courage.

"By the grace of God, and thanks to Mr. Chamberlain, we were granted one more year to prepare for the inevitable conflict, and in that time much that should have been done before was done. I think that time will decide that episode was the greatest individual contribution in history to civilization, and that Hitler lost the Battle of Britain and the world war on the day he signed that pact he never meant to keep. But it was a touch and go affair. The risk should not have had to be run. There had been ample warning, for the present Prime Minister, Mr. Winston Churchill, had quoted figures in Parliament regarding the war preparations being made by Germany. In the final analysis in September, 1938, when the destiny of the world was at stake, we were not prepared as we should have been.

"In making this critical review, you will appreciate the fact that I am paying the highest compliment I can to the Old Country, because I assure that, along with the Dominions, is the guardian of the liberty of the world, and I have nothing but love and admiration for the country I was brought up in, and where all my relations are.

Debate of France

"I suffered yet another lesson when I saw how step by step France almost deliberately prepared for the debacle that overtook her, and when I saw the lack of co-operation among the democracies I died the death time after time, a helpless spectator on the side and while I shall speak later, but the stark tragedy and the drama of it haunts me and will continue to haunt me as long as I see danger ahead and it is with this lesson in mind that I speak. After today, I can at least say I spoke my piece, because I am going to say exactly what I think about another equally great crisis we will be face to face with in due course.

"There is no doubt that Canada, having entered this war of her own free will, can be counted upon to do all within the power of a great and courageous people to attain victory. She needs no verbal encouragement from me, my humble services at her command.

"There is no doubt that sooner or later the Allies will triumph over the barbarous and merciless regime they oppose and that civilization will again be able to continue its slow progress.

"However, there is grave doubt that we must not pursue the preparation for the peace as we should. There has been unemployment in Canada for many years, and we know that when war activities cease at the conclusion of hostilities the condition will be even worse if we are not prepared—and prepared we must be or otherwise the victory we look forward to with such longing will be a hollow triumph. We have no fear that this preparation will retard our war effort. On the contrary, the knowledge that we are working to this end will greatly hearten and encourage our enlisted men serving in the Army, the Navy and the Air Force.

Face Greater Danger

"We are facing a greater danger than ever before. I cannot over-emphasize this statement, and, because of that, we have a greater incentive than we have ever had; and so the stage is set to find the answer to the curse of all democracies—unemployment.

"We who love Canada and who are aware of this crisis from the need of a plan to meet it—and every one of us should be in this category—have a very definite duty to perform. That duty is to make ourselves acquainted with the fundamentals of economy, which is the determining factor in employment, so that we may be able to perceive between truth and falsehood in discussing this all-important topic; at least, with the same degree of intelligence as we do in other matters.

"Actually, at the present time, most of us come under three categories: those of us who are indifferent; those of us who suffer from an inferiority complex in approaching this problem, and those of us who mean well and who are anxious to help, but who, in our anxiety to make others as aware as we are of the situation and the need of action, make statements that are definitely incorrect.

"We criticize those in charge of government and find every fault and suggest plans that are impractical. Criticism is necessary and plans are necessary, but they must be of a type that can be substantiated. Wituperation and inaccurate defeat the attainment of the objective we desire.

"It is best to go to standard sources for information, and if we search diligently these sources show both the necessity for action and the action that can be taken.

Quotes Graham Towers

"In this respect, we cannot do better than refer to the evidence given by the Governor of the Bank of Canada, Mr. G. F. Towers, before the Standing Committee on Banking and Commerce during the Session of 1939. On page 55 of the Government pamphlet containing this evidence, Mr. Towers states: 'When the Government borrows money to acquire the use of a certain amount of labor and equipment. If the purposes to which these factors are applied are at least as productive as the alternative uses to which they would have been put if the Government had not borrowed, then I would say that there was no real burden upon the taxpayer. Although he would pay more in taxes to cover the Government interest charges, he would receive back the interest paid and have at least as large an income of goods and services as before.'

"Mr. Towers, besides holding his important office with consummate skill, is one of the rising economists of the day, and in consequence no statement could have a greater degree of authority than this.

"I am going to make a very graphic statement that in this short paragraph we have the whole secret of the salvation of democracy revealed, and if we will study it until we understand its full significance, we will be doing a service to Canada and to ourselves.

"There is little need to add that this announcement justifies borrowing by the Government, not to compete against private enterprise, but to put all idle men and equipment to work to produce the things we most need, such as houses and roads, to enlarge our over-crowded institutional buildings, to bring our reforestation up to standard, etc. If, of our plan well and work well in these undertakings the country as a whole will benefit by the total sum of this endeavor and the benefit will be of a continuing nature.

This statement of Mr. Towers is in the very best of company as it is definitely supported in Addendum No. 1 of the famous British Macmillan Report. Here, on page 205, we read: 'It is feared that the added schemes are likely to put some burden on the budget and, therefore, to lead to the evils of increased taxation. If, however, we lump together as we should for the purposes of this argument—the budget and the unemployment fund, we feel quite confident that the relief to the unemployment fund and the relief to the budget resulting from the increased employment provided by the schemes in question, would materially outweigh the direct cost of the schemes to the State.'

Other Support

"Sir Reginald McKenna, Ex-Chancellor of the Exchequer and Chairman of the Midland Bank; J. M. Keynes, the greatest living economist, and Mr. Ernest Bevin, the present Minister of Labor, who most certainly will be a member of the reconstruction government in Great Britain, signed that statement.

"Mr. Marriner Eccles, head of the federal reserve banking system in the United States, speaks in the same strain. This is an extract of what he said March 24th, 1939: 'However, I believe that when private enterprise is unable or unwilling to do so, Government should help to put the idle money, some of the ten million of unemployed and idle facilities to work in non-competitive socially and economically desirable public activities, including the building of roads, schools, hospitals, public housing, etc. This should be done in a way that will stimulate and supplement private activity.'

I think it would be a fair statement to say that you have the advisory boards of the three greatest existing democracies indicating what can be done and what must be done. "These statements, if they are understood—and they must be understood—should assure those of us who are part of that large body of Canadian people who have life insurance policies; who have savings accounts; who pay taxes; that security can also be found for those who are less fortunate, without endangering our insurance policies, our savings, and without any particular increase in our taxation.

"But it is not sufficient to study; we must act as well. In fact, if action is not taken in time to look after the unfortunate, all the security we value will be jeopardized.

Important Committee

"Prior to dissolution of Parliament, the Dominion Government set up a Committee of Demobilization and Re-establishment to go into the problem of post war rehabilitation. That committee's administration has been returned to power with the greatest majority in history. The Prime Minister, the Right Honorable W. L. Mackenzie King, is absolutely behind this work. He has realized the necessity of action to deal with unemployment. He stated on September 20th, 1934, "And it is economic freedom that today we must seek. To work out more in the way of economic freedom is a great aim and purpose of Liberalism not only throughout this country, but throughout the world."

"What is to stop us reaching the goal? Obstacles of the opposition of certain factions of ignorance and reaction and inertia on our part. "The necessary action requires courage. There are always hazards in any change no matter how certain we may be.

"In this contest all citizens have an equal responsibility with the Prime Minister and the Government. We must be partners with them in a common effort; a responsibility in which we have failed in the past.

"The job can be done, but the Government must know that it is not only the unemployed who deserve action. It should know, and must know, that the people of Canada, as a whole, are behind them heart and soul, willing to back them up, willing to overlook mistakes that may arise.

"We can rest assured that once the financial instructions are given, the Bank of Canada and the Ministry of Finance will carry out the mechanics of the order with all the devotion and skill at their command, and as they alone can do it.

"This committee has, to a degree, the destiny of Canada in its hands. This committee is under the chairmanship of Hon. Ian Mackenzie, who, in my opinion, is most splendidly suited for the post because in his Highland heart he has a depth of kindness and understanding that one finds too seldom in men in high places. The committee has already a series of sub-committees, consisting of department officials, dealing with various phases of the problem, and these studies, in turn, will be broadened out to obtain the advice and co-operation of labor, business and veterans' organizations, as well as of provincial governments and municipalities. But I have so often heard this remark: 'Well, I guess we are to busy prosecuting the war to give much attention to post war planning,' from men in important positions with whom I have discussed this committee, that I feel very strongly that the Bank of Canada should express in no uncertain voice her vital interest in its work.

Three Recommendations

"With this thought in mind I would make the following recommendations:

"1. That without any delay and in anticipation of a request from the Committee on re-establishment this Legislature should instruct every municipality and city to work out a ten-year program of productive work, which would probably have as its base public housing, to give full employment for the number of men they might expect from their past experience to have on their relief rolls at the conclusion of hostilities. The City of Kelowna is already working on such a plan.

"2. That the Province of B.C. has its own program for unorganized districts revised and up-to-date.

"3. That we should send a copy of Mr. Graham Towers' evidence ready to be presented to the Committee on Commerce and Industry to every adult in British Columbia, and that we suggest to other provinces that they do the same. Mr. Graham Towers has an unequalled gift for lucidity on monetary matters. I

POPULAR DANCES AT EAST KELOWNA ARE CONTINUING

Pro-Rec Classes Open for Men and Women on Tuesday and Wednesday Evenings

Another of the popular Friday night dances was held in the Community Hall on November 1, with Roy Enderby's orchestra providing the music. These dances, which have been held every two weeks, will be continued, it is stated.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Smalles, whose wedding took place recently, were honored by a party given by a group of friends in the East Kelowna Community Hall on October 26. They were welcomed to East Kelowna by Mr. Geo. Fitz-Gerald, and both bride and groom replied suitably. They will make their home in East Kelowna.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Booth have taken up residence in East Kelowna following their recent marriage.

Pro-Rec classes for men and women commenced on Tuesday, November 5, with Miss Nora Perry and M. N. Barwick in charge. Tuesday nights will be devoted to gym classes while Wednesday nights will be given over to games. It is hoped that the classes will be again as popular this year as they have been in the past. Keep fit classes for the women will be held later in the season.

Red Cross sewing meetings are held in the Community Hall on Mondays and Thursdays with Mrs. E. B. Powell in charge. All ladies who feel that they would like to help are asked to meet at the hall on one or both of these afternoons.

Mrs. J. H. Paterson and son, Bill, have returned from Vancouver. They recently motored Mr. Paterson to the coast, where he will resume his military duties at Victoria.

AUTO ASSOCIATION FOR COMMISSION

B.C. Group Advocates Non-Political Highway Commission

Though the highway users of this province contribute some twenty per cent of the total provincial revenue, they have little or no power to govern its expenditure on highways, say officials of the British Columbia Automobile Association, in advocating a non-political highway commission and the earmarking of all road dollars.

During the fiscal year April 1st, 1938, to March 31st, 1939, Department of Public Works' reports show, the sum of $3,918,724.37 was spent on highways, bridges, ferries, wharves, interest and sinking fund of the British Columbia highway system. During the same period a total of $6,237,874.42 was collected from both private and commercial motorists. This leaves a difference, Auto Association spokesmen point out, of $2,319,150.05 spent on government projects or in government department other than the highway construction and maintenance department.

Only some jutting timbers prevented him from receiving the full force of the impact. Mr. Montgomery is at present in Hospital suffering from severe bruises and strain, but expects to be home the latter part of the week.

EXPERIENCES IN ENGLAND TOLD TO WESTBANK

Relatives of Mrs. A. M. Kingsbury Write Describing the Bombing Attacks and "Brutal Murder" Attempts

Many are the experiences told in letters from overseas, and recently Mrs. A. M. Kingsbury, of Westbank, has received letters from her sisters and brother in England which tell of experiences that it is difficult to visualize here, where peaceful days and nights are accepted as a matter of course.

In connection with the recent census, taken in London from London, Mrs. Kingsbury's sister, Mrs. Horrell, is one of the billeting officers in the little country town of Rampton, Northamptonshire, and she tells of one evening's experience when seven hundred children, accompanied by sixty-six teachers and several helpers, arrived from London, and of how difficult it was to find places for them before the youngsters felt so tired and sick that many of them began to cry bitterly.

It was heartbreaking, Mrs. Horrell stated, and it was past midnight before the children were made cosy in their new homes.

Another sister, Mrs. Griffith, of Hove, Sussex, writes that she was out shopping one morning when a Nazi plane dived low and began machine-gunning the shoppers and though Mrs. Griffith escaped unhurt, she saw numbers killed. "It is not war but brutal murder," wrote Mrs. Griffith, and she went on to tell of a cricket match held for a certain charitable affair that same afternoon; the Germans caught sight of the crowd and flew close to commit more murder, but the people saw them in time and got to safety.

A theatre where a children's matinee was in progress was their next target, and here eighty little ones met their death. Then, on the enemy planes, went to smash six streets of houses in the poorer, more congested district of the town and to kill many of the residents, this being the third attack on that particular theatre.

One of Mrs. Kingsbury's brothers, living in the London suburbs, had his home at a time when his wife was alone in the house. She was thrown right out into the garden, but escaped miraculously with shock and bruises. Yet, in spite of all this, Mrs. Kingsbury says that the letters she receives have such a tone of thankfulness that the people are not suffering as other countries have done, and they are thankful to get enough to eat.

Preventive Services

The speaker termed this as a preventive service, except in dentistry, as the speaker would be impossible to do away entirely with the treatment service. That would always be necessary. Admissions of children to the hospital at North Vancouver had been noticeably cut down in the last four years, Kelowna Health Unit reported no deaths from typhoid in the past nine years, also several diseases had been put down.

Dr. Amyot then gave an approximate estimate of the total cost of the general program for each municipality, organized and unorganized. Several problems regarding the gathering of funds were raised and discussed.

The speaker also stated that a doctor treats the sick, but health service deals with the well, preventing them, if possible, from coming into the unit, mentally and physically.

The general staff would need the assistance in this work of a board consisting of a representative from the Provincial Board of Health and from the councils and school boards. After a hearty vote of thanks, Dr. Amyot left the meeting, as he was then late for his next meeting. It was decided that each municipality bring in their decision regarding this service to the next meeting.

A discussion on the road problem was the next in order. The Hope-Princeton highway was acknowledged to be necessary as an alternative route to the Coast, but the feeling was general that improvements are necessary on some of the Valley roads.

Regarding Alberta bonds, Reeve Wilkins, who is leaving this week for Ottawa, was asked to put the matter before the Dominion government.

A suggestion for fewer meetings during the year was made, but it was decided to carry on as during the past. An invitation was extended by the Kelowna delegate to hold the next meeting in that city.

The subject of return of grants was brought up but, as time was pressing, this was left over till next meeting.

Regret was expressed at the loss of the President, Reeve Wilkins, who is entering war service at Ottawa. Hopes for his success were also expressed.

CREATED DISTURBANCE

Urban McDougall, of Westbank, was charged in Kelowna Police Court with creating a disturbance in a public place and, on November 4, paid a fine of $5 and costs.

Valley Municipalities Will Bring In Decision Regarding Health Unit

Health Service Plan for Okanagan Outlined to Municipal Association by Dr. G. F. Amyot, Provincial Health Officer

The fourth quarterly meeting for 1940 of the Okanagan Valley Municipal Association was held on Tuesday, October 29, in the City Hall at Armstrong.

At 12:30 a luncheon in the Armstrong Hotel was tendered to the guests by the Armstrong and Spallumcheen Councils, at which a toast was drunk to the King, and a welcome to the visitors was expressed by Mayor Adair and Reeve Noble.

Delegates were present from all districts from Penticton on the south to Salmon Arm on the north. A letter of regret was received from Kamloops, as the delegates were unable to be present.

Following the luncheon, all made an inspection tour of the pea factory, cheese factory and the Inland Flour Mills.

About 3 o'clock, delegates met at the City Hall, with the President, Reeve W. G. Wilkins, of Penticton, in the chair. During his opening remarks, he spoke of his surprise at the extent of Armstrong industries, being asked to meet the council at their next meeting, the Secretary, J. R. Wriglesworth, of Penticton, corresponding to the Police Commissioner.

At this time Reeve Wilkins introduced Dr. Amyot, Provincial Health Officer, and asked him to explain to the meeting his proposed health service plan for the Okanagan. Dr. Amyot said that the territory was too big for one staff to handle, so he suggested dividing it somewhere near Kelowna. He had made an estimate of the population on the basis of the school population, as that was the only way he had, since the census had not recently been taken. The necessary expense, one quarter of which is paid by the government, was the salary of a statistical clerk and the office expenses at a central office. This is what he called a general staff.

A full time dentist for children was suggested and a sanitary inspector would be necessary. The nursing service would be as it is at present.

The speaker termed this as a preventive service, except in dentistry, as the speaker would be impossible to do away entirely with the treatment service. That would always be necessary. Admissions of children to the hospital at North Vancouver had been noticeably cut down in the last four years, Kelowna Health Unit reported no deaths from typhoid in the past nine years, also several diseases had been put down.

COUNCIL APPROVES PIPE BAND GRANT

Ald. A. Gibb Still Protests Against Payment of $50

Grant of $50 to the Canadian Legion Pipe Band was passed, on Monday evening, by the City Council with one dissenting vote. Payment of this grant had been held over from a previous meeting when Ald. A. Gibb protested against the payment. Alderman O. L. Jones and R. F. Parkinson were then asked to investigate and report.

At the Monday evening council meeting no attempt was made to consider any report but the question was put to the aldermen. All but Ald. Gibb assented, the latter stating: "I still think the council could save $50 of the taxpayers' money and hurt nobody". He had previously declared that the Legion should be responsible entirely for the upkeep of the pipe band.

About Xmas Presents ... (I know I'm early!)

With present-giving somewhat curtailed this year, it will be more thoughtful to think of the things that will take the place of useless knick-knacks. And people will be economizing over their gifts—knitting socks for the men, making extra special homemade jams and jellies and candied fruit.

Housewife ...

If you dust from the top down and sweep 'with the grain' you'll never complain.

If you try to be punctual, cheerful and trim, attentive to details—You'll never lose 'him'.

If you never get flustered if you do not fuss Your husband, my dear, Is a fortunate cuss!

About Gifts for Mother

Mothers are the hardest people to give to—they won't give any further suggestions. Just some little thing, dear, while you want to really splurge on a radio or a fur coat. Mothers only too often seem to have a good supply of bags, scarves, stockings, nice bedwear—they don't need things for the house—and they rate higher than handkerchiefs, stationery and bathsalts.

How about photographs? Not necessarily a professional one of yourself, with or without family, but perhaps a couple of framed enlargements of snaps she has admired—or a collection, in an album, of scenes and people that she knows. Be sure to date and name each picture. If you are artistic, you might do little pen-and-ink sketches on the pages of the album, between the photos and relevant to the subjects.

Be Generous Re: ...

Among the things you should not choose To economize on Are gloves and shoes, Your tailored suits, Your point of view, Glasses, cosmetics, And corsets, too.

About Gifts for Girls ...

Girls of any age love things (from lingerie to accessories) that come in sets, and things (see above) that are monogrammed. Girls are very easy to choose for, and, if they do like your present, you needn't worry—they will have no compunctions about changing it or giving it away next Christmas (probably to your own sister).

Guilt? ...

Oh how the males Hate "bloody" nails. "But what about," we answer back, "Men's nails whose normal hue is BLACK?"

Yes, men have the time and soap To scrub, and now they will, I hope.

About Presents for Men ...

Don't buy a book for a man unless you know the book fairly well and the man (and his tastes) will read it. There should be a law against a woman buying a tie for a man unless the man for whom she is buying it is helping her, or the man from whom she is buying it is not under the impression that the customer is always right.

For Small Boys ...

"Give a boy a toy he can break!" something he can perhaps fix, and certainly tinkers with. Psychologists have a theory that Play is a Preparation for Life. Anyway, you may as well let Junior get used to mending his own breakages as to mending the nail and not his own fingers, while he is still young.

DR. D. M. BLACK TALKS TO YOUNG WOMEN'S CLUB

Tells of Japan's Expansion and Her Prospects of Enlarging Activities Into Greater East Asia

The Kelowna Young Women's Club held its regular monthly supper meeting at the Royal Anne Hotel, on Tuesday evening, with Miss Marjory Huntly, the new President, in the chair for the first time.

Community singing was led by Miss Audrey MacLeod, with Mrs. A. P. Pettipiece at the piano.

At a short business meeting it was decided to purchase a wreath for the Armistice Day service in the park. The club will commence Red Cross work at its next meeting, on Tuesday, November 19th, when Mrs. James Purvis has offered her home. Mrs. Bill Knowles, Mrs. J. Ribelin and Mrs. Horace Simpson will be in charge of this meeting.

Dr. D. M. Black, the guest speaker of the evening, gave an enlightening and interesting talk on "The Expansion of Japan in Formosa, Korea and Manchuria," where the Japanese have developed industries, created factories, built extensive railroads, irrigation systems and have made the standard of living considerably higher. But, at the same time, Japan has looked to her own welfare at all times.

Dr. Black stated that the outcome of the situation in China is uncertain, that although the Japanese have a much superior war machine, the Chinese passive resistance of the Chinese must be taken into consideration.

"The spirit in Free China is extremely high," said the speaker.

The Japanese are feeling the economic strain, due to having cut down on importing, and would like peace if it didn't entail the loss of "face."

In closing, Dr. Black said that Japan, in the present world war, sees a wonderful opportunity for even greater expansion in Greater East Asia.
